

Walk facing directly away from the setting sun. you're not allowed to look in its direction in any way during the wander. Your directions will be vague, but most importantly, do not turn and face the sunset

Instead, observe the sunset by looking at the light it casts on objects, the shadows it makes, the subtle way it changes how other things look

The game ends when someone sees a star in the sky

Rules:

- for 1 or more players
- phone only for selected music
- no talking
- pointing allowed
- Start the wander exactly 1 hour before sunset

Lying on the grass outside my house, miserable, watching the sunset, and feeling that high schooler sense of awe at the world and its scale. That was a sunset I truly appreciated, I truly needed.

Optional Music Selection :

“Hiemal: Leaving the stars behind” on bandcamp (ambient)

during my final exam period in my final year, I got sick. My parents were also away for the week, and I was home alone and super stressed about studying. I remember one of those first warm may days,

SUNSET WANDER

MARCH 2025

STARTING POINT:
SOMEWHERE STILL IN THE CITY, BUT BARELY

BY JONAH

My house growing up was the highest point in our town, and had the best view for sunsets. There were so many amazing ones that I can barely remember any in particular. At the very end of high school,
